

Monthly fee for each child is based on the family/household's combined gross income. If the household has a combined income of SEK 50 340 (from 210101) or more, the maximum fee always has to be paid and no details of income need be submitted (write MAX instead). The fee will be adjusted on annual basis.

Please read more in Information and Fees documentation.

Name of child		Grade		Personal number
				Year	Mon	Day	No
Name of child		Grade		Personnummer
				Year	Mon	Day	No
Name of child		Grade		Personnummer
				Year	Mon	Day	No
Street adress		Postal code and city				Phone
Mother or cohabitant with father, name				Personal number
				Year	Mon	Day	No
Occupation				Phone, daytime
Father or cohabitant with mother, name				Personal number
				Year	Mon	Day	No
Occupation				Phone, daytime
Gross income per month		Mother or cohabitant with father		Father or cohabitant with mother		Office notes
1	Salary per month
2	Illness benefits, parents allowance per month
3	Income from own company per month
4	Grants and scholarships per month
5	Other income per month
Sum of gross income per month						=

A new income statement must be submitted immediately upon any change in income. Families/households that do not submit the required income statements will be charged the maximum fees.

The undersigned hereby insures that the information given is correct and may be subject to verification.

Lund (date) _____ Signature _____ Signature _____

Declaration is valid from _____

What is counted as income?

Fees are based on estimated gross family annual income divided by 12.

For the purpose of determining fees, income is taken to include wages before tax and other taxable income belonging to the service income category and any surplus in the business enterprise income category.

Any income earned outside Sweden is taken into account in determining fees and is converted to kronor.

Examples of the most common types of income:

- wages and other remuneration from employment,
- fees
- sickness allowance
- parents' allowance
- unemployment benefits
- scholarships
- vocational training allowances
- family allowance in the form of supplemental income in connection with compulsory national service training
- daily allowances in connection with compulsory follow-up national service training
- temporary foster parents' allowances